Churches Unite For City-Wide Revival Effort

Opening Service Of Three Weeks Series At Cathedral Tonight

In a great union revival program, more than 30 New Castle churches and numerous rural churches, have joined to make possible the "Christ for Greater New Castle Evangelistic Crusade" which opens this evening at 7:45 o'clock in the Cathedral auditorium. The services will be the first of a three-week series which will come to a close on Palm Sunday, March 18.

The effort which promises to renew memories of the great Billy Sunday campaign conducted in the city about 1910, is co-sponsored by the New Castle Christian Business Men's Committee and the approximately 34 churches, who are wholly or partially lending support to the intensified religious program.

21-Day Series
The speaker for the 21-day series of meetings, Dr. Hyman J. Appel, of Kansas City, Mo., internationally known evangelist was carefully selected by the local Christian business men over two years ago. Through local pastors, who have worked with him in other campaigns, the city and area is assured that nightly, the widely known evangelist will preach basically fundamental Christian truths upon which all of the Protestant churches of the city are agreed and can work unitedly together.

The local committees, directed by Rev. George Jones, of the Alliance Gospel Tabernacle, 210 Pearson street, general chairman of the revival program have been engaged for many months in setting up the proper machinery to carry out such an extensive program in the district. Campaign headquarters were established at The Castleton hotel, to facilitate the work of the some 14 committees which have been created to carry out the

A fawn flitting across a road in early morning is a beautiful sight. But when ten additional fawns are following it becomes an interesting sight as well. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grocutt, of 409 East Leasure avenue were driving about 9:10 o'clock Sunday morning on West Washington street extension. Suddenly Mr. Grocutt brought his car to a halt—a young fawn was slowly crossing the road. Another followed, then another and another—all hardly more than six months old. Finally eleven of them crossed, while solemnly looking at the car. The fawns were a light beige in color, a few of them having dark spots. They all had little white tails which they flitted to and fro. Having crossed the road, they stopped in a group, looked at the car again for a few minutes and then scampered on. Mr. and Mrs. Grocutt regret that they did not have their camera along with them.

One year ago tomorrow, the Cledent Building at Mercer and Washington street was destroyed by fire, one of the city's worst fire disasters.

PA News noted some robins prospecting around this morning as if they intended to go about their spring task of nest building. This is sort of rushing the season a little, but maybe we are in for an earlier spring than we realize.

Highways which have a concrete base seem to have survived the unusual winter weather in good shape. While a "rough pavement" sign appears here and there, these

Dulles Prepares To Make Far East Mission Report

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—John Foster Dulles is expected to report shortly to President Truman on his mission to the far east to work out a Japanese peace treaty.

Dulles was not listed on the White House calling list for the night, but it is possible that he may make an unannounced visit to the president.

The former Republican senator who is now a special U. S. ambassador, returned to Washington last night but declined to discuss details of his trip pending his report to the president.

In addition to his talk with Mr. Truman, Dulles will report to the state and defense departments. He also has promised to consult later

Great Britain Repudiates Soviet Charge

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Great Britain sharply repudiated today charges by Russia that England is to blame for the fact that there is no Austrian peace treaty.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain is "only too anxious" to see improvement in its relations with Russia but the "Soviets are going about it in an extremely clumsy way."

The Russian charge was made in a note to the London government delivered Sunday. Russia also claimed that the combined armed forces of the western nations are far greater than the number of men under arms in the Soviet Union.

The foreign office spokesman said the charge that England is at fault for the lack of an Austrian peace treaty is an "indication of the uselessness of this latest note as a historical document."

Paris Bus Service Halted By Strike

Expect Senate To Pass UMT Bill This Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Senate passage of Universal Military Training—possibly this week—is predicted today.

Senate G.O.P. Whip Saltonstall, Mass., said that changes may be made in the draft provisions of the military manpower bill on which the upper chamber opens debate Tuesday.

Saltonstall added: "But I believe the UMT provision will stay."

Saltonstall, a member of the Senate armed services committee, declared that Congress would be derelict in its duty if it fails to provide the kind of a program contemplated by the UMT part of the bill.

Training Program

The senator said: "I should feel we are not doing our job unless we are doing a training program for the post-emergency period to assure a steady flow of trained men into the reserves."

Senate armed services chairman Russell (D) Ga., said he believes Congress has come to the conclusion UMT is necessary. For the first time, he added, Congress appears in a mood to approve UMT.

But Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, said he is inclined at this point to oppose UMT. The Republican policy leader explained that some things in the manpower bill need clarification.

Concessions In Wage Formula Are Expected

By FELIX COTTEN

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Economic Stabilizer Johnston is expected to send the ten per cent wage ceiling formula back to a re-established Wage Stabilization board today or Tuesday with recommendations for major concessions to labor.

Informed sources said, if Johnston takes this action, it will mean that organized labor has agreed to go back to the board, thus reestablishing the tripartite machinery.

The three labor members walked out and later resigned after the six industry and public members approved a 10 per cent wage ceiling the night of February 15.

Johnston spent last week conferring with President Truman, Defense Mobilizer Wilson and other officials and in hearing a full presentation of labor's case.

Possible Action

While he has maintained a strict silence, labor sources say they understand he has this in mind:

1. Sending the wage ceiling regulation back to the board to be whipped into shape instead of trying to modify it himself.
2. Making recommendations to KOREA—Broken remnants of three North Korean Corps fled north through east-central mountains above Pyongyang (1) with United Nations forces in hot pursuit as Allies captured Chongson (2) to the east and consolidated gains to the west on the Hoengsong-Yongdu axis (3). However, stiffening resistance from enemy troops massed on 25 mile western half of central sector and muddy terrain stalled the United Nations "killer" offensive. On the western front, Yank and South Korean patrols stabbed across the Han river just west of Seoul but withdrew in face of heavy fire.

Approximately 250,000 U.S. Troops In Korea

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, declared today that approximately 250,000 American troops are now fighting in Korea.

Bradley's disclosure was made before the House Armed Services committee at a resumption of its hearings on the draft-universal military training legislation. He gave no figures on the number of other United Nations forces in Korea.

Long Unsettled Period

The nation's highest military leader solemnly warned the committee that possibly 10 to 20 years of unsettled international conditions may be expected. He stated: "There is little chance that the ominous threats to our security will decrease. The conditions under which we labor may persist for ten, fifteen or twenty years. Our only sensible military answer is to have our citizens adequately prepared and organized to take up our defense."

Bradley was called to present his views on the committee's proposal that men be drafted at the age of 18 and one-half years with

Senator Taft Testifies Today

Outlines Attitude On Troops For Europe

By WILLIAM THEIS

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Sen. Taft laid down a four-point argument today against the European defense project and demanded that the troops program be settled by Congress as a "political question."

The Senate GOP leader from Ohio warned that without a limitation on the U. S. contribution of troops to Europe the nation's military buildup threatens an ultimate economic "breakdown."

Testifies Today

Taft testifies this afternoon in the troops-for-Europe hearings. Former Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R) Ky., who favors sending troops, and Sen. Wherry (R) Neb., who opposes it, are the day's other witnesses.

Taft said the administration's program, with a planned armed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Congressional leaders said today that President Truman will ask Congress this week to increase rates on second class mail.

House Speaker Rayburn (D) Tex., and Senate Majority Leader McFarland (D) Ariz., said after their regular Monday morning talk with the president that a message asking increase in postal rates will be sent to Congress later this week.

They said they also discussed the president's forthcoming trip to Key West, Fla. They announced that the president, while in Florida, will confer with the congressional leader each Monday morning in a telephone conference.

The president established this procedure during his last trip to Florida.

Mud-Clogged Surfaces Prove U.N. Handicap

Flooded Rivers Also Add To Need For Supplies From Air

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

(European General Manager, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Feb. 27.—(Tuesday)—Hundreds of tons of supplies were airlifted Monday to United Nations forces fighting through mud and flooding rivers to exploit a "virtual rout" or Red troops on the east central Korean front.

As "flying boxcars" poured supplies in a steady stream to the Allied troops struggling against the handicap of mud-clogged surface supply routes, fighter planes and B-29 Superfort bombers delivered smashing blows at enemy concentrations.

Meanwhile, tactical plans of the hard-hitting United Nations troops were discussed at a conference between Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.S. Eighth Army commander, and his top generals on the central front.

(Growing strength of the Allied forces in their "Killer Offensive" was emphasized by announcement in Washington that Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, that 250,000 American soldiers are now fighting in Korea. He did not give figures on troops of other nations in the conflict.)

Huge Supply Airlifted
The airlift planes parachuted 300 tons of combat material to the Allied forces, making a total of 1,200 tons in six days.

Five Die In Plane Crash

MACY, Neb., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Authorities probed the wreckage of a twin-engine chartered aircraft today to determine the cause of a crash which claimed five lives on an Indian reservation.

Twisted remains of the craft which carried pilot Howard Campbell to Sioux City, Ia., and four passengers to their deaths were sighted last night by a search plane after it had been missing for more than 24 hours.

The plane was rented from the Sioux City, Ia., Flying Service by Marvin Engelking, a Moline, Ia., farmer, to transport three army recruits to their Moline homes on a short furlough from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Bodies of all five were found in the wrecked aircraft which crashed into a cornfield on the Omaha Indian reservation near Macy, a hamlet on the Missouri river 25 miles south of Sioux City. The servicemen who perished were Roger Clark, Darrel Mousel and Bud Kisting.

Will Launch New Type Sub

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—The Navy announced today that its first postwar submarine designed to hunt and kill other submarines will be launched at Groton, Conn., next Friday.

An anti-submarine has been a top priority project with the Navy since the war. With it, the Navy hopes to be capable of waging true undersea warfare, effectively bolstering its "hunter-killer" operations against enemy undersea craft.

The new ship, built by the Electric Boat Co., is 195 feet long and displaces 750 tons, compared to a length of 311 feet and 1,500 tons for present fleet type submarines. Other details are not reported.

Coal Miners In West Virginia Return To Work

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Coal mining operations resumed in northern West Virginia today as 21,000 United Mine workers returned to work after a one-week strike in protest of a bill passed by the state legislature.

Locals voted over the week end to go back to work, although the House of Delegates approved the bill last Thursday.

The bill permits section foremen to double as fire bosses in the mines. The miners wanted the jobs separated.

Gov. Okey L. Patterson has not acted on the bill. If he does not sign or veto it this week, the act automatically becomes law.

Report Red Spies Crossing Mexican Border Into U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—The House un-American Activities committee is expected today to probe reports that Communist spies are crossing the Mexican border in the guise of farm laborers.

Chairman Wood (D-Ga.) said that a "serious situation" apparently has arisen, especially on the west coast where Communists are reported crossing the border.

The chairman said that his committee has received reports that the Reds apparently assemble in lower California, Mexico and then come into the country with legitimate Mexican farm help who are now being imported in increasing numbers to aid American fruit and vegetable growers.

force of 35 million men, would run the federal budget to $80 billion dollars.

To this Taft added 20 billions in state and local spending—for a 100 billion dollar total—and said: "That's more than we can stand without inflation and an ultimate breakdown."

Four Point Program

Taft summarized his position with these four points:

- 1—The question is whether the United States will establish an international European army, not just whether "we will send two divisions" to such an army.
- 2—It is a political question, not a military one, and should be settled by Congress, not the President.
- 3—The European project is in "very dangerous form" because there is "no army promised sufficient to defend Europe." Any army now in sight, he said, is "completely inadequate."
- 4—It is dangerous because if there is no limitation this country will be committed to "more than it is possible to hope to fulfill, in view of the costs."

various responsibilities assigned to them.

Pre-Campaign Work

The pre-campaign work is unique in the fact that both clergy and laity have worked side by side to make the program possible. Prayer centers were established in every section of the city, feeling that concentrated prayer is the greatest factor in inviting God's help in such an undertaking. Reports have been in progress. Report meetings were conducted weekly in order that the progress of the committees could be observed.

The financial committee, directed by a prominent layman, have undertaken a partial financing of the program in order that fewer offerings would be lifted during the progress of the meetings. Almost $2,000 of the $13,000 budget was raised in this manner. The speaker, Dr. Appelman and the musical director, Rev. John Troy, come on no guarantee, but depend on a "love" offering which is lifted toward the conclusion of the campaign.

Mayor Haven To Speak

The initial program of the revival effort which gets under way at 7:45 o'clock this evening, will be addressed by Mayor John F. Haven, who will welcome Dr. Appelman and the evangelistic party made up from all the cooperating churches, will be directed by James James, local music director and the following nights, Rev. Troy will direct the vocalists.

Musical Party

For the entire party, Jerry Renkenberger of Salem, Ohio, will preside at the organ and Rev. C. Bergerson of Akron, O., will be at the piano. Rev. Adam Lutzweiler will be the marimba soloist for the first week. The Eureka Jubilee Singers will be on hand for the final 12 days of the campaign.

Other features on the campaign include noon-day rallies to be held in the First Presbyterian church, at which time Dr. Appelman will be the speaker. Children's rallies have been planned nightly after school in four churches. Calvary Tabernacle, Vogan street; Church of the Nazarene, Falls street; First Baptist, East street; and the Neighborhood House, South Mill street. Giant rallies are to be conducted for the kiddies each Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at First Presbyterian church.

Decision cards have been completed and each night those responding to the invitation, will have a card filled out for them and eventually will be referred to the church or pastor of their own choosing.

Plans have been made to receive delegations from points as far as 100 miles from the city. Special seats will be reserved for these groups.

Pa Newc Observes

highways for the most part seem to be little affected by the winter weather.

Hundreds of cars again "hit the road" on Sunday as anxious motorists obeyed the urge to get out into the wide open spaces. Late Sunday afternoon cars coming from all directions came into the downtown section causing quite a momentary traffic situation. Increase of out of town license plates is likewise noted among the travelers.

* * *

An extensive strip mining project along the Perry highway several miles north of Harlansburg, is certainly changing the scenery in that locality.

* * *

Workmen have completed erection of a new traffic light at East Washington and East streets, replacing the older light which hung at the spot. The new light has deeper cups and motorists can see the light more easily. Candlepower of the bulbs has evidently been raised.

* * *

Disturbances have just about returned to normal after a quiet week end when neither rain nor snow fell in the district. Most of the ice along rural roads and the streams has now disappeared.

* * *

Many residents were inviting illness as they traveled about the downtown section this morning in lighter attire due to the higher temperatures. After wearing heavy coats for many months, they were more or less glad to walk about with just suit coats. The warmer weather is expected to be around for a day or so yet, according to predictions.

* * *

Sunday school and church attendance in most of the city and county churches rose sharply on Sunday due to the favorable weather. New records were established in some cases for the pre-Easter attendance contest which is in progress in over 50 churches of the district.

* * *

Some residents spent the week end in clearing off garden spots of collected debris in order to ready the ground for the coming gardens which they hope they will be able to plant early this year. It is learned that many who have not planted gardens for a number of years will do so this year to provide food for next winter.

JOANNE SAYLOR WEDS JAMES CHARLES COX

The Croton Methodist church was softly candlelit and adorned with white blossoms, scheffleria ferns and eibotium palms for the impressive ceremony on Saturday evening, February 24, at which Miss Kathryn Joanne Saylor and James Charles Cox were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Saylor, 1024 Dewey avenue, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leroy Cox, 417 Butz street.

Rev. Alexander Duncan, pastor, read the double ring service, with the young couple exchanging their vows at 7:30 o'clock before a host of friends and relatives.

Escorted to the altar by her father and preceded by her maid of honor, matron of honor, bridesmaids and flower girl, the lovely bride appeared in a gown of lace and slipper satin. The fitted lace bodice was styled with long tapered sleeves, tiny Peter Pan collar and covered buttons to the waistline in front. A dainty bustle was a fashion note of the very full skirt which terminated in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of satin which featured lace flowers set with seed pearls. She carried an old coin that belonged to her grandmother and observed the something old, new, borrowed and blue tradition. A white bride topped with a white orchid and streamers completed the picture.

As maid of honor, Miss Kay Anderson was attired in a gown of pale pink nylon marquisette fashioned with short sleeves, Peter Pan collar, and covered buttons to the waist in front. The gown's very full skirt, matching headress and mitts were additional features of the ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations.

Mrs. Donna Rowles, matron of honor, wore a pale orchid nylon marquisette gown, with the bridesmaids, Mrs. Marilyn Downing and Mrs. Jean Grimm, gowned in pale green nylon marquisette. The attendants' gowns were designed like that worn by the maid of honor, and each girl carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations. Flower girl, Miss Janet Saylor, was attired in a gown of pale yellow marquisette.

Albert Rowles served the groom as best man, with ushers including Eugene Downing, Dean Streator of Pittsburgh and Ronald Saylor, cousin of the bride.

Bernard Thompson, cousin of the bride, accompanied Miss Betty Jane Nelson as she sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Because" and "My Hero."

Three hundred guests were entertained in the church basement from 8 to 10 p. m., with a tiered wedding cake gracing the bride's table. The young couple later departed for a honeymoon to Florida by plane. They will reside with the bride's parents upon their return.

Don't Go Through Life... Not Sick Enough To Stop Working; Not Well Enough To Work Well

Many people go through life not sick enough to stop working, but not well enough to work well. Some folks do something about it, others just talk about it. Mrs. J. H. Digby, by Cedar Glades Rt., Hot Springs, Ark., could offer a word of advice to those folks who postpone doing something to help themselves. Her Mrs. J. H. Digby advice would be... take HADACOL, for Mrs. Digby found that by taking HADACOL, she was giving her system Vitamins, B1, B2, Niacin and Iron which it lacked. And taking HADACOL helped her overcome those deficiency-caused ailments; she keeps right on taking it now that she is feeling good, to keep those troubles away.

Here is what Mrs. Digby says: "I am 51 years old and I have suffered from stomach distress for some time with bloating and gas. I was weak and nervous and I couldn't sleep at night. I read in the paper about HADACOL. I started taking it and have taken five large bottles. It helped me from the start and now I feel fine. I wish everybody that had stomach distress would try HADACOL. I can truthfully say it is fine."

Amazing Soviet Inconsistency

One of those amazing inconsistencies typical of the Soviet mentality and which the western mind can never hope to fathom has come to light with 33rd anniversary celebrations of the Russian army and navy.

Many of the Soviet Union's top military men sounded off in Pravda, in Izvestia and on the Soviet radio with blistering attacks against that product of communist fancy and propaganda—western "imperialism."

But they all ended on a triumphant, boastful, almost joyous note.

They maintained, in effect, that the armed forces of the Soviet Union are the strongest in the world, that any would-be aggressor faces annihilation and that ultimate victory in any new war is axiomatic.

Contrast Is Noticeable

Yet only a week ago Premier Marshal Stalin presented himself as hurt, chagrined, slandered and maligned by British Prime Minister Attlee for remarking to the House of Commons that Russia had failed to demobilize after the second world war.

In retrospect, the whole controversy has some fantastic aspects, something like a Lewis Carroll dialogue, with two persons talking in perfect meter about two totally different things.

When Attlee spoke, there was hardly a ripple.

He merely said again in the course of a foreign policy review before the House of Commons that Soviet failure to disarm was a contributing factor to world tension.

The prime minister referred to an estimate given earlier by British Defense Minister Shinwell that the Russians have between 175 and 200 divisions under arms—possibly two and a half million men, plus 40,000 airplanes, 25,000 tanks and an ocean-going fleet of hundreds of submarines.

Estimate Repeated

This same estimate has been given so many times and in so many authoritative international circles that there was little excitement if any.

As a matter of fact, while the original Shinwell address attracted some publicity, Attlee's reference to it was buried far down in all news dispatches.

But it gave Stalin what he wanted for one reason or another—and when a reporter for the Communist party newspaper Pravda sought an interview or was summoned to hear a diatribe, Attlee was made the victim.

Stronger renunciation of military aims than that made by Stalin.

But before a week had passed the columns of Pravda were thrown open to the military spokesmen, and the picture became a very different one.

Fate Awaiting Sokolovsky, deputy minister for armed forces, who was first in command under Stalin himself until the dictator ostensibly retired from the military field.

"Every state which has attacked Russia has met with infamous defeat. No better fate awaits the present war adventurers who are preparing aggression against the Soviet Union."

From Marshal Ivan Konev, commander-in-chief of Soviet army ground forces:

"The entire system of world imperialism will be liquidated in event of a new war."

Said Marshal Sergei Shtemenko:

"The Soviet fatherland must be kept in constant readiness for combat. If the imperialists impose a new war upon us, we Russians will smash any aggressor."

To quote Gen. Vladimir Kurasov, who got the chief radio assignment:

"We must maintain combat preparedness. The Soviet Union is the strongest contemporary armed force in the world."

Attlee cannot help but be gratified by this brilliant confirmation of his soft-boiled charge by some of the top brass in the Soviet hierarchy.

But he must be a trifle confused also. And the average Russian reader, who looks upon Pravda as a Bible, must be somewhat bewildered also. Unless bewildered is a crime against the fatherland.

THINKING AND DOING

"Tis thinking old what makes you old."

My grandsire used to say,

"But thinking bold will keep you bold."

So laugh your fears away,

But Grandpa, it is sad to state,

Thought he could lift a sack

Regardless of its heavy weight,

And almost broke his back.

"Think young," my grandsire said

to me,

"And young you will remain.

What once you used to do, will be

What you can do again."

But falling from his horse he spoke,

"In much the self-same tone:

"It's not my spirit that I broke,

It's just my collar bone."

He never gave up anything

To favor Father Time.

To make the little ones a swing,

A tree he'd boldly climb.

And when he fell in consequence,

And landed on his head,

"You're old enough for better sense."

Military Spending — National Economy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Speaking in Salt Lake City the other day, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio had some interesting things to say about military spending and the national economy. It is possible that his remarks are like that cloud on the horizon bigger than a man's hand forecasting the shape of things to come.

Specifically, Taft suggested the appointment of a commission headed by civilians "to explore the methods by which the same military results can be accomplished with fewer men and less expense."

This is a practical proposal that will seem to many to have merit since it sometimes looks as though since the armed services were bent on getting everything while the getting was good regardless of cost.

But as so often when Senator Taft goes from the general to the particular he gets on to dubious ground. In his Salt Lake speech he said:

"It is necessary for us to support 50,000 men in uniform and 25,000 more civilians to put one division of 18,000 men in the field. This is certainly far more than is required by any other nation."

Some Confusion Here

There is here, it seems to me, a confusion that is partly the fault of the army's method of computing its organized strength. Partly the confusion results from exaggerated and even hysterical estimates of the size of Russia's forces.

The number of Russian divisions is commonly put at 75. Russian divisions consist at full strength of 12,000 men. Ordinarily it is believed, they are considerably below full strength.

The American division of 18,000 men is part of what the army calls, and the phrase is an unfortunate example of government gobbledegook, the "division slice."

The division slice for a typical combat zone in a large theater would consist of 38,000 men. Included would be troops required for supply, the protection of lines of communication, replacements and so on. In other words, if the estimate was based on an arbitrary 12,000 men to a division, as in the Soviet Union, the numerical count in divisions would be much higher.

1,350,000 In Ground Forces

Today there are 1,350,000 men in the ground forces of the United States. As military leaders will soon make clear to Congress, this represents more divisions than has been disclosed.

We were first given the figure 18 and then 24. The figure of 24 divisions does not include a number of regimental combat teams, artillery and anti-aircraft units. With these elements computed on

They say it's losing our pants cuffs now or lose our pants in the next police action.

No one ever will know how much wool was saved in the last war by having the tailor in the ready-made store cut four inches of material off each pant leg and throw it away.

But things aren't too serious yet. We still don't have the bread-slicing ban.

That was the one that saved wear on the steel bread slicers, already installed at the bakery, and sent millions of housewives out looking for steel bread knives to use in the home.

Figures weren't published, but we are believed to have saved several pounds of steel and lost only a few thumbs.

For some reason, no one in government ever claimed authority of that magnificent idea, but the creator is believed to have gone on later to the manufacture of flying saucers.

At Least, It's An Idea

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.

The Government's financial condition has reached a stage where the concern felt by most informed and thoughtful men at the dire crisis in which we have been going has been turned, by the great crisis that has arisen, into acute alarm. The basic reason is not merely the terrific size of the debt, the huge defense expenditures, and the undreamed-of depth of the deficits that loom, but even more by the tragic uncertainty with which those charged with responsibility face problems the proper handling of which is essential to avert economic collapse.

Aside from inflation, the three most vital of these are: (1) How best to raise the $10,000,000,000 of additional revenue called for by Mr. Truman without imposition of taxes so heavy as to stop altogether the economic clock, and crush all individual and corporate initiative; (2) how, against presidential opposition, to achieve the curbing of billions of dollars in nondefense expenditures; (3) how, considering the fiscal structure will become perilously lopsided, to persuade the Treasury to find some sounder way of financing future issues than the inflationary one of compelling the Federal Reserve Board to purchase, without limit, Government securities, which, of course, means perilous use of the printing press.

Concerning these questions, the Administration's fiscal policy is so marked by inadequacy, hesitancy and unsoundness that these unadmirable qualities are reflected in Congress and a state of general confusion exists in the Government with no one, except the consistent economy advocates like Senator Byrd and a few others, clearly knowing what he wants to do. The simple, straightforward steps to raise revenue are rejected because of opposition from either the labor bosses and other demagogic groups or the professional "liberals," journalistic and political, who automatically react against any proposal that conforms with the multiplication table. Back in 1934 when a Democratic Senate had overwhelmingly voted for a Federal sales tax, it was killed by President-elect Roosevelt, perhaps, the least wise and most irresponsible President, financially, we have had, who expressed himself as "horrified" at the idea. That remains the attitude of his followers. They do not know why they are "horrified," but they are. Yet there is no fairer nor easier way of raising revenue than the sales tax.

Regardless of its soundness, a similar reception will doubtless greet any other suggestion from those in private life who know most about money. At once the blatherskites howl "Wall Street" and "Big Business" and run off at the mouth about the "common man" and the "greedy rich." And an always apprehensive White House turns its back and lets things drift. That is the prospect. Nevertheless, there are more than a few scared men here wistfully looking to the financial world in the hope that some strong voice therein will sound a note and propose a plan to which they can safely attach themselves. In this connection, it is interesting to consider an idea put forth by Mr. Charles E. Merrill in the Investor's Reader, published by his firm in New York.

Private ownership, he points out, most sharply distinguishes our society from that of the totalitarians. In World War II the Government provided most of the money for industrial expansion because during the thirties investors seemed to be shrinking in numbers. But now the securities business is equipped not only to help private industry but also to help the Government raise the extra funds it needs. Because it has never been attempted on a big scale, nobody knows how much of the defense costs could be shouldered by investors. In World War II, for example, investors undoubtedly would have bought synthetic rubber shares had they been offered. Instead, the Government (therefore the taxpayers) paid some $700,000,000 for the synthetic program.

But, says Mr. Merrill, things may be different this time, especially if Mr. Truman insists on his pay-as-you-go policy and Congress gets balky about raising taxes again. If United States investors are allowed to play a direct wartime financial role it would start an interesting economic cycle: private capital would cut Federal costs, which, in turn, would cut taxes, which, in turn, would encourage more investment. In various sections there are investors eager for the chance. An example is the recent statement from a leading industrialist that private investors would be willing, under Government direction, to supply the funds to construct the St. Lawrence Waterway, a project once more before Congress and supported by both the President and Mobilization Director Wilson. If the Government took advantage of this trend it could keep its own investment risks at a minimum. It would not have to tie up so much money, require so much taxation or accumulate so many bureaus and bureaucrats. It could keep full control, direct policy, set the general rules but allow capital and industry to do the rest.

Certainly to a layman this seems a practical plan. Certainly it would simplify the enormous mobilization job now being so confusedly attempted in Washington. Certainly it would greatly lessen the gravity of the financial problems above mentioned. However, it would require high courage, real character and capacity to accept, formulate and operate. Unfortunately, on those three commodities this Administration seems to check very short. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Once again I see in my newspaper today the picture of a gloriously happy movie actress embracing her new husband of an hour's standing and exclaiming "This is the happiest moment of my life. This is IT for keeps."

Names, in this case don't matter. I don't intend to be mean or odious. I like to see happy faces. But, dimly, I recall a picture of this very same actress two or three years ago, embracing her next-to-the-last husband, and as the cheering assembled press with equal enthusiasm that THIS was going to be IT for keeps.

Just for the fun of it I am going to put this picture in my file and shall watch for the next installment of her happiness, when this lovely creature again gets married "for keeps."

There is another picture in my paper today. It is the picture of an elderly couple cutting a wedding cake. The caption tells that they are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, that they have four children and fifteen grandchildren. Nothing is mentioned about "for keeps." It doesn't have to be.

Fifty years of married life together is "for keeps" without saying anything about it.

According to the little story that goes with the picture, he is a foreman in a nearby factory. The address is a neighborhood of modest homes where modest people of modest means live—and pay their bills.

That Golden Wedding must have been quite an affair! The paper printed the list of the guests—probably the first time their names have been printed. Six or seven nationalities must have been represented by these guests. Among them were a priest and a rabbi.

I didn't attend the festivities. But I'd bet that there was not a divorced couple in the crowd, or that a single one of them would have bragged about this "marriage for keeps" business.

Those people, and fortunately millions of others, still take it for granted that marriage IS something "for keeps" and getting divorced is something bad like getting drunk or taking dope.

STALIN AS PEACEMAKER

There is something abjectly pitiful in the alacrity with which the diplomats search through each of Stalin's rare public statements for some hint that may open the door to peace. They never find it. The nearest they ever came was in 1949, when such a scrutiny led eventually to ending the Berlin blockade but failed to bring real peace closer.

Yet the renewed wistful search through Stalin's party-line clichés for a faint footprint of the dove of peace is the best evidence that could be wished for as to where the real cause of world tension lies.

Stalin's latest self-interview was particularly poor material for such scrutiny. In the past he has often seemed to be playing the familiar role of the lieutenant in detective novels—the one who walks in on a third degree, scolds his goons, sympathizes with their victim, and soon traps him into tying the noose around his own neck. This time, however, his tone was too sharp for this role.

That is no particular cause for regret. When Stalin was most friendly and reasonable he was lulling Washington's suspicions, not reflecting Russia's real aims. Thus when he received Secretary Marshall during the 1947 Moscow conference, he said that he saw no tragic deadlock, but only a mild family quarrel that would soon be resolved by compromise. The conference nevertheless ended in a deadlock that persists to this day.

Makes Report On Legislature

Assemblyman White
Reports On Week

In a report to his constituents, General Assemblyman Robert M. White, 2nd, today tells of action on seven bills in the General Assembly last week. The report follows.

House Bill No. 34 — Requiring motorcycles to use mufflers. The Motor Vehicle Code already requires motor vehicles to use mufflers but it was felt that the law enforcement officers were not requiring motorcycles to abide by this law.

House Bill No. 1—Sets up the organization for the State Council of Civil Defense. An amendment removed the provision for the payment of volunteers under this program. Volunteers will receive the benefits of the Workman's Compensation Act if they are injured while participating in this program.

House Bill No. 59—Under existing law, City governments can place a lien against property without first getting a judgment if the property owner has not paid his taxes. This Act allows the City to do this in every case where it has a Municipal claim against the property owner. By not getting a judgment there is a savings to the City in filing fees.

Sportsmen's Insurance
House Bill No. 94—Allows Sportsman Associations to purchase group insurance policies.

House Bill No. 99—This bill has been adopted by 13 other states. If a husband deserts his wife and she has a Municipal claim against the property owner. By not getting a judgment there is a savings to the City in filing fees.

House Bill No. 45 — Prohibits hunting and the discharge of weapons in cemeteries and burial grounds.

Senate Bill No. 4—Allows absente veterans and hospitalized or bedridden veterans to vote by absentee ballot. Only members of the armed forces are given this privilege. Prior bills which extended this privilege to the members of the Merchant Marine, the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, etc., were found to be unconstitutional. This Bill also provides that the primary elections are to be held on the fourth Tuesday of July.

To Arraign Sixty For Peddling Dope To School Pupils

DETROIT, Feb. 26 — (INS) — Sixty persons are scheduled to be arraigned in Federal Court today on charges of peddling dope to Detroit high school students.

The alleged narcotic peddlers were picked up over the week end in a series of wholesale arrests by federal agents and local police. Authorities estimated that $100,000 worth of dope had been seized in connection with the arrests.

The roundup was the result of a year-long grand jury investigation of dope addiction among Detroit high school students. Many of the students testifying before the grand jury were as young as 15.

Joseph C. Bell, head of the Federal Narcotic office in Detroit, estimated that 98 per cent of the dope peddled here came from New York. The remaining two per cent is believed to have come from Chicago. Meanwhile, aware that the sudden drying up of the supply might drive addicts to acts of desperation, the police department sent a warning to all precincts to alert officers against a possible wave of drug store robberies.

Patrolmen also were instructed to keep a protective eye on physician's home and automobiles.

Music Emphasized As Senior High Vocational Interest

Music was emphasized last week at the New Castle senior high school, in continuance of the vocational interest program begun February 12.

Sophomores and juniors assembled Thursday and Friday to listen to choral and instrumental groups present their types of musical entertainment.

E. C. Book, director of all choral groups, explained the functions of the concert choir, the boys' chorus, the girls' chorus, the mixed chorus, and music appreciation.

Willard Keen, instructor in instrumental music, explained the functions of the band and orchestra.

All students were invited to meet with Mr. Book and Mr. Keen if interested in musical participation.

Choral and instrumental groups then presented a short program. The boys' chorus sang "Vive L'Amour," the concert choir, "America United" and "This Is My Country."

James Stevenson then played a violin solo and the full orchestra concluded the program, playing "Showboat" selections.

Science will be the vocational interest in this, the third week of the program.

Gen. DeGaulle Calls For Statement Of U.S. Program

BOURGES, France, Feb. 26 — (INS)—Gen. Charles De Gaulle has called on America for a clear-cut statement that it intends to come to the immediate assistance of Western Europe with "masses" of men in case of attack.

The French general declared that such a proclamation would "immensely help" the free nations of Europe to "emerge from their confusion" over rearming for defense.

Speaking yesterday at ceremonies in connection with the anniversary of the battle of Verdun of World War I, De Gaulle said:

"I implore America not to entertain any illusions. If Europe is lost, all that remains in free Asia would be lost automatically and it would not be possible to hold Africa."

WASHINGTON CALLING

that Russia at the forthcoming foreign ministers' conference intends to make important concessions on Germany which might be part of a peace offensive designed to halt the rearming of western Europe. This would coincide with the beginning of heavy arms expenditures here at home in an uncontrolled economy with new taxes piled on the old. Such a coincidence could encourage the notion that we were setting all hot and bothered for nothing with military expansion merely a plot of the warmongers allied with the generals. If that should happen it might eventually mean that we would lapse once again into the complacency that prevailed before the Communist attack in Korea.

The golden-wedding bride never wears plunging necklines or tight-fitting sweaters. The groom, not used to picture-taking, usually looks just a little sheepish.

There are no loud-voiced promises of things to come.

But always, in their eyes, there is that happy expression of promises kept, of duty done, of hopes fulfilled.

TIGHT HOUSING

CHICAGO—The housing situation, already tight in many urban areas, is likely to get worse before it gets better. The National Association of Housing Officials pointed out that there's going to be an increase in the number of new families seeking living quarters of their own in 1951. This, coupled with the anticipated curtailment of residential construction as a result of the international situation, is going to make it difficult for newlyweds to find a place to live.

'Lonely Hearts' Killers Will Die, March 8

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Two of the most repulsive criminals in modern crime annals are nearing the end of the trail in the Sing Sing death house.

The lonely hearts killers, slinky Raymond Martinez Fernandez and fat Martha Beck, will die in the electric chair at 11 p. m. Thursday, March 8. They have exhausted all legal appeals and the execution has been ordered by the Court of Appeals. Executive clemency by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey would be the only other possible action.

Fernandez, a 36-year-old Hawaiian-born Spaniard, and his 31-year-old paramour, who hails from Pensacola, Fla., have been in the Sing Sing death house since August, 1949. They originally were sentenced to die August 31, 1950, but the executions were delayed pending an unsuccessful appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Mrs. Beck and Fernandez were convicted in New York August 18, 1949, of murdering Mrs. Janet Fay, an Albany, N. Y., widow. They also confessed killing Mrs. Delphine Downing, another widow, of Byron Center, Mich., and her infant daughter.

Met Through 'Lonely Hearts' They met their victims through "lonely hearts" correspondence clubs.

Mrs. Fay, who was 66 years old and had an attractive bank account containing $7,000, was bludgeoned and strangled in an apartment leased by the pair in Valley Stream, L. I. Her body was found buried in the cellar of a house in Queens after her daughter became suspicious and reported her disappearance to police.

The killers, meanwhile, had already left for Michigan, where Fernandez paid rapid court to Mrs. Downing. In both cases Mrs. Beck represented herself as his sister.

Fernandez had persuaded his new fiancée to sell her house and turn over most of her money to him, when she suddenly became suspicious. The pair then persuaded her to take some sleeping pills and shot her when the pills failed to kill her.

Buried Body in Home They buried Mrs. Downing's body in the cellar of her home. The next day they killed and buried the 20-month-old child. But neighbors, puzzled by the unusual goings-on, called relatives of Mrs. Downing and they, in turn, called police. The cops walked in just as the killers were preparing to leave.

In Fernandez' pockets they found a large amount of money taken from the two widows, plus a list of 132 more lonely hearts. He had put check marks after 14 names.

The two confessed the killings and were taken to New York to stand trial for the murder of Mrs. Fay. After 30 days of evidence the jurors took 12 hours to find them both guilty of murder in the first degree.

Their sojourn in Sing Sing was enlivened last summer when Fernandez charged that his fat mistress was involved in an affair with a death house guard. He said this "sordid triangle" was driving him frantic and demanded to be executed at once to escape the mental torture.

A federal judge was not impressed and denied his petition. Prison authorities said there was nothing to the charges.

Two National Guard Divisions Ordered To Japan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—The army has ordered two National Guard divisions on alert for movement to Japan "to provide additional security for that country."

The two divisions are the 40th Infantry from California and the 45th Infantry from Oklahoma. The army's brief announcement declared:

"They are to be ready at Camp Cooke, Calif., and Camp Polk, La., respectively, for movement in the latter part of March."

"It is the intention of the department of the army to keep these divisions intact in Japan for further training."

Approximately 36,000 officers and men are affected by the order and the army asserted many of the officers and men will be permitted to take "short leaves and furloughs before departure."

First U.P. Men Will Hear Speaker

Men's club will assemble in the dining room of First United Presbyterian church Tuesday, February 27, at 6:15 p. m. for a dinner with guest night being observed. Every member is asked to take a guest.

Harvey Bush, program committee chairman, has announced that Attorney William J. Caldwell will be the special speaker, having chosen "The Human Side of George Washington" as an appropriate topic for the February meeting. Special music will be offered by the Reinhard Sisters' quartet. David Rees will direct the fellowship singing during the program.

John Mikels, president of the club, has announced there will be an important business meeting preceding the program.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT (International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Ruth Roman has admitted for the first time that she was an autograph hound back in the old days when she was working in a settlement house in Boston.

Her hero in those days was George Raft and one day the great man came to Boston on a personal appearance. Ruth spotted him across Boston Commons and ran across to get his autograph.

"At that moment," Ruth says, "it was the most important thing in the world to me that I get his signature on a grubby little piece of notebook paper. A few years later and I would never admit it. Now, however, I don't think it was such a bad idea."

First and Last The shapely screen star, currently slaving away on Warner Brothers' "Tomorrow Is Another Day," also revealed that Mr. Raft's autograph was the first and only one she has ever sought.

"That makes me only a pretty weak movie fan, I suppose," declares Miss R. "but after Mr. Raft's signature, nobody else's seemed to matter."

Ruth believes that her favorite actor (at that time) must have been pleased to see a tousle-haired young lady scampering after his autograph.

"I know," she says, "that I am always pleased when youngsters—or anybody for that matter—want my signature. It is very flattering, and also part of an actor's job."

Although Mr. Raft was the Roman dream man 15 years ago, she has never had an opportunity to meet him since she has attained a professional status equal to his.

THIS AND THAT Short takes: It sounds like the old nickelodeon days, but producer Walter Wanger has registered the following title for a forthcoming movie: "Splendors and Miseries of a Girl."

Fernando Lamas, M-G-M's Latin star, is to be teamed with Lana Turner and Ricardo Montalban in a remake of "The Merry Widow."

20th Century-Fox may film its spy thriller, "Operation Cicero," in Istanbul, the locale of the story.

Pep Lee, professional ball player who recently switched from the Brooklyn Dodgers to the Pittsburgh Pirates, will serve as technical advisor on Paramount's "Rhubarb."

Lee is a studio electrician between baseball seasons.

Bennett Sees Conservation

Basic Measures For All Farm Land By 1970 Are Forecast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, predicts today that basic conservation measures will be applied to all the nation's farmland by 1970.

The noted conservationist says he bases his forecast on "what has been done thus far and on the encouraging continued upward trend."

Bennett says that at the end of the first seven years of federal soil conservation work, in 1941, the SCS had directed conservation treatment of almost 27 million acres, an average of almost four million acres a year.

Then in 1942, Bennett says basic conservation measures were applied to more than five million acres in conservation districts. And finally in 1950 the same kind of treatment was applied to 26 million acres.

He says that as of June 30, 1950, about 20 per cent of the national farmland conservation job was completed.

The SCS, Bennett points out, is speeding up the conservation job, partly because of the current mobilization and expansion of farm crop needs, but mainly because improved conservation practices are essential in war or peace.

The government conservation service, he says, is pushing for expansion of approved conservation measures by an annual rate of four per cent of the total job during the next three years compared with last year's 2.7 per cent of the total.

Nationally, Bennett says, this would mean an average annual rate of about 60 million acres surveyed for conservation measures needed, 50 million acres of farm land planned for conservation, and 40 million acres treated with needed conservation practices each fiscal year from 1952 to 1954.

Summing up, the SCS says: "This would be a goal well worth our utmost efforts to achieve. I feel it can be achieved."

and that when that is done, progress can be still further increased.

"If we can do this, then the nation can be assured that the indispensable soil conservation job will be finished on time."

Lawrence County Farm And Home News

By Extension Representatives Lewis C. Dayton, Agriculture John H. Holbert, Agriculture Patricia A. Kelley, Home Economics

'MILESTONES' SHOW PROGRESS ON FARMS

Farmers of Lawrence and other counties throughout the state are doing a progressively better job. This is reflected in "Mid-Century Milestones," annual state-wide report of the Agricultural Extension Service, just out.

Covering the whole range of subjects in agriculture and home economics common to the farms, the farm homes, and the rural communities in Pennsylvania, the report deals also with homemaking activities, and indicates the progress rural women are making, too, as a result of their use of these educational aids. The booklet portrays work being done in Lawrence county and gives a composite picture of extension work for the whole state.

Among the pictures used as illustrations is one from Lawrence county. It shows Russell McFarland, Wilmington township, mixing spray materials to be used in his orchard.

Told in terms of farmers and homemakers achievement, the report tells how use of modern methods and improved practices are contributing to a better agriculture and better living. The title implies that the close of the first half of the century marks a milestone for agriculture and for the Agricultural Extension Service in both time and achievement.

Compiled by J. M. Fry, state director of the Extension Service, the report emphasizes the cooperative aspect of extension work and acknowledges assistance from many interested individuals and organizations.

VENTILATION GOES WITH INSULATION

Proper ventilation of dairy barns and poultry houses removes odors and moisture through an exchange of air. In buildings cooled by too much radiation of heat through walls and windows, the necessary ventilation may result in rapid and extreme changes in temperature.

Insulation reduces heat loss, but this is no cure for moisture, nor does it prevent condensation, and so ventilation is necessary.

Holding the animal heat by means of insulation, and keeping a favorable temperature differential between indoors and outdoors make animals and birds more comfortable. They stay healthier and less air is needed to carry off humidity.

COMMUNISTS MUST BE DEFEATED IN KOREA SAYS MACARTHUR

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(INS)—General Douglas MacArthur warned last night that unless communism is defeated in Korea it will be able to build "a war-making potential to point at the heart of Europe and America."

In a specially-cabled message to the fourth convention of anti-communist organizations in New York, MacArthur declared:

"The issue is drawn and the predatory communist adventures must be decisively defeated. Otherwise all of Asia will fall to communism and with it communism will gain all the requirements to the building of a war-making potential without parallel in history—a war-making potential to point at the heart of Europe and America."

Prince Mdivani Is Reported Missing

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Mrs. Virginia Sinclair Mdivani reported her husband, Prince David Mdivani of the royal Georgian family, as "missing" early today.

Mrs. Mdivani, the adopted daughter of oil magnate Henry Sinclair, told West Los Angeles police that her husband left their Bel-Air home at 6:30 p. m. last Friday for Bakersfield and Paso Robles, Calif., on business.

She told police the graying 44-year-old 200-pound prince failed to keep business appointments in both cities and had not registered at any of the hotels at which he usually stops.

Mdivani once was married to silent film star Mae Murray.

The prince was wearing a gray suit and tan overcoat when he left home. He was driving an expensive 1948 automobile bearing 1951 Idaho license plates.

Police issued an all points bulletin on the missing prince.

Court Upholds
New Trial PleaDamages Too Low,
New Trial Granted

Another trial has been ordered in the case of Dominick A. Averso against Virginia Iacobucci for the reason that the damages awarded in the first case are held to have been low. Judge John G. Lamoree made the order.

The case is that in which Esther and Nancy Averso, minor sisters of the plaintiff were injured on February 16, 1950. The girls were on Lutton street hill on their way to school. The street was covered with a film of ice and a light snow. Miss Iacobucci was on her way to work, driving a car down Lutton street when the car skidded, went over the curb and struck the two girls. Both of them went to the hospital.

When the case was tried the jury returned a verdict of $5,234.71 for Dominick Averso the guardian, $2,000 for Esther and $1,000 for Nancy. The $5,234.71 represents hospital and doctors' bills.

The plaintiff then moved for a new trial upon the grounds that the verdict was too low under the evidence. In his opinion and order Judge Lamoree said, "The defendant argues the verdict was conservative under the circumstances but it was substantial and should not be disturbed. With this we cannot agree, for it requires no stretch of even judicial imagination to understand that an amount regarded as substantial in years gone by, cannot under present conditions and circumstances be regarded as substantial. A new trial is ordered."

NEW TRIAL REFUSED

Judge John G. Lamoree has refused the motion of Owen Ransom for a new trial and has overruled the assignment of errors submitted by the defendant.

Three cases against Ransom were tried in September, 1950, one of them being robbery, receiving stolen goods and assault on battery, another a morals charge, and still another assault and battery upon Miss Helen Brasile.

The jury found Ransom guilty and he was remanded to the county jail pending an appeal. The appeal or motion for a new trial has now been refused and he is ordered into court Wednesday, February 28 for sentence.

This well-known actress of the silent days of motion pictures, Leatrice Joy, was born in New Orleans in 1901. After eight months of stock, she commenced her movie career. Other pictures in which she played feminine leads were "The Blue Danube", "The Angel of Broadway", "The Bellamy Trial", "Strong Boy" and "Tropical Madness". She had black hair and brown eyes. Can you remember her?

This popular author, James Cabell, was born at Richmond, Va., April 14, 1879. He was an instructor in French and Greek at William and Mary college, his alma mater, then worked in the pressroom of a Richmond, Va., newspaper. He later worked on the staff of a New York paper and was an historian and editor. His first novel was "The Eagle's Shadow", published in 1904. "The Line of Love", "Gallantry", "The Cords of Vanity", were also early books. "Jurgan" and "The Judging of Jurgan" were later, as were "The High Place", "The Silver Station", "Something About Eve", "The White Robe", "The King Was in His Counting House", "The First Gentleman of America", "There Were Two Pirates", "Witch Woman" and "The Devil's Own Dear Son", published in 1949, and others. Easter Seal Campaign
Now In Progress Here

Annual Easter Seal campaign in Lawrence county, sponsored by the Lawrence County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, is now open.

Small donation boxes were distributed to leading business houses by representatives of the service clubs in New Castle, Ellwood City, Wampum and New Wilmington.

More than 20 board members and guests attended the kick-off dinner Friday evening at The Castleton hotel. President John McGrath was in charge of the meeting that was marked by calmness, the confidence and cooperation of McGrath announced that over 2500 letters containing Easter seals will be mailed to county residents during the following week.

Reports Are Made

Several reports of preparations of various committees were heard. These include publicity, and the audit committee headed by Mrs. John Elliott. General Seal Campaign Chairman Reuben Elliott expressed his pleasure at the sound plans that have been made for this good cause, the aiding of crippled and adult children.

An unusual story of the founding of the Crippled Children and Adult organization was related to the gathering by William Adams, safety director of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh, and president of the National Safety Director's organization. It was by pure chance that Mr. Adams was invited to the meeting.

He related that he was working in Elyria, Ohio, in 1907, when a trolley disaster caused 14 persons to have their feet cut off at the ankles. One of these victims was Adams' best friend, Homer Allen. Young Allen later died as a result of the accident. His father, however, became very interested in helping others crippled by the accident. The movement started by Daddy Allen grew into the National Association for Crippled Children and Adults. Allen served as President Emeritus of that group until he died a few years ago. One of two camps for crippled children in Pennsylvania bears his name—Daddy Allen Camp in the Poconos.

The crippled children fund is one of the oldest of its kind in the country. Its funds are used, for research, education and rehabilitation. Seventy percent of the total raised in this county will be used here. All workers are voluntary and the purpose of the newly chartered organization does not duplicate that of any other group.

State Police Say:

It is not enough merely to look ahead while driving, you must think ahead, too. Always try to anticipate what the driver ahead of you or the driver approaching from the opposite direction may do. Be alert for the approaching driver cutting across your line of travel to make a left turn into an intersecting road or street or into a gasoline station. Drive as though your life depended on it—because it does.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

I thought I had heard—and retold—all the W. C. Fields stories, but Lionel Barrymore has come up with a new one. It seems his brother, John, once pursued a young lady in vain. "My heart is another's," she proclaimed. "It belongs to W. C. Fields." Unused to such rebuffs, the youthful Barrymore, who had never even heard of W. C. Fields at the time, demanded to be taken to see his rival's act.

When it was over he turned to the girl and murmured, "Farewell forever, my sweet, I am now in love with W. C. Fields myself."

Before an adventurous crew of six men on a vine-tied raft called Kon Tiki set off from Callao, Peru, for an incredible 4,300-mile journey across the Pacific, the Peruvians, lost in admiration for their courage and initiative, paid attention to nobody else for days. In fact, one old punster in the book trade insists that a sailor

Sees Reorganization
Of V.A. As Real Need

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Dr. Robert L. Johnson, Temple university president and national chairman of the citizens committee for the Hoover report, believes that Veterans Administration needs an "early and sweeping reorganization."

Lashing out at "absurd" methods, he cited a letter recently sent by Dr. Alvin C. Eurich, president of the University of the State of New York to VA Administrator Carl R. Gray as a "startling new example of VA red tape."

Eurich pointed out that in the letter in recent VA contracts, "signatures or initials of administrative officers of our university were required in over 2200 places."

Johnson declared: "This is entirely typical of the waste and delay which the commission and its task forces found in VA operations. No wonder the veterans are getting such poor service from VA. While veterans wait for answers to their letters and veterans' widows wait for long overdue insurance payments on death claims, VA officials busy themselves with pointless paper work."

HUNT LARGEST FAMILY

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(INS)—America's next number one father will be the man who made the most trips to the maternity ward. Alvin Austin, director of the Father's Day committee, said a hunt already has started for the dad with the largest brood, who will be honored on Father's Day, June 17.

Ninety per cent of the divorces granted by him are a direct result of over-indulgence in drinking, according to a Cleveland judge.

Anna Rosenberg Works Long Hours

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—(INS)—The sign over the door reads "assistant secretary of defense." The room itself is huge, and the desk in it built to scale. Behind that desk sits a diminutive woman, Anna Rosenberg, for whom Gen. George C. Marshall himself bought a special desk chair so her cinderella feet would touch the floor.

"There was a big red leather chair behind the desk when I came here last November," explained Anna, who was Gen. Marshall's choice for one of the most important jobs in the world today, that of handling American manpower. No woman, not even former Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, has ever before held so important a post in the federal government.

"And my feet didn't touch the floor. But I was too busy to notice. But the general did," she continued.

Must Have New Chair
"And he said 'Anna, you must get a chair that fits you. You must especially get one that fits your back. That is very important when you work so hard.'"

"So I told him I would get a new chair but I never could get around to it. And about ten days later, a young man from his office came in with this chair, and said General Marshall had ordered it for me and that I was to use it."

"Honestly," he, the sweetest, most wonderful man in the world," said Anna of the secretary of defense, whose aides frequently describe him as "austere, great, brilliant," but hardly ever as sweet.

But to Anna, he is sweet and wonderful and some one for whom you willingly work yourself to death. For Anna Rosenberg, suddenly thrust into one of the biggest jobs in the nation, has almost worked herself to death in three months she has been in Washington, D. C.

Now she only works till 1, 2, 3 and sometimes 4 a. m. She no longer works the night through at the Pentagon, suddenly looking up to discover it is 6 or 7 a. m. She did that in the first weeks in Washington, when she was testifying before congressional committees daily on manpower problems.

Had To Stay Up All Night
"Then I would order a big pot of coffee," she told me, "and take a shower and get back into my same clothes and go on the hill to testify. I simply had to stay up all night to prepare for those hearings. There was so much I had to learn," and her voice held some of the desperation of those early weeks of urgency.

"You see, I am not brilliant. I just work hard," she explained. Innumerable business, labor and military leaders will argue the first statement, but not the second.

"All the promises I made General Marshall and my family when I came here to take the job have gone down the drain," she said ruefully. "The general and my husband made me promise that I would take it easy, and that every Saturday and Sunday I would go home to New York. But it is impossible."

"I went home a few times and more people made appointments with me in New York than in Washington and finally my husband said 'Anna, I would rather you didn't come home. Let me come to Washington. If you stay there, you at least get a few hours rest on Sunday.'"

Gen. Marshall Alarmed
Gen. Marshall got alarmed about her working habit, too.

"The general tried to control the hours I worked," she said. "He would come in to the office and say 'Anna, tonight you go home at 5:30 p. m., and I would say 'yes, sir.'"

"But there is always so much to be done that should have been done yesterday. And the general would check up and find I had worked till 2 or 3 a. m. So one day, I heard him telling my staff that after 6:30 p. m. that day, no one was to speak to me. And I said 'general, you are preaching insubordination and insurrection' and he said 'no, Anna. I am only trying to get you home at a decent hour.'"

"Well, that day he won, you can't work with a staff that refuses to speak to you. And, naturally, no one dares disobey the general."

No one, naturally, except Anna, who goes on working a 16 to 18 hour day.

EVERYDAY ARITHMETIC

"I just never could do arithmetic."

What a common statement that is. Many of us, indeed, don't feel much at home with numbers. In most instances, such feelings can be traced back to childhood days when drill in learning number combinations brought distress and failure.

Today, the schools feel that the more experience with "real" numbers children can have, the better. By "real" numbers they mean such things as learning to tell time on the clock, speed on the speedometer, the number of kittens to which the mother cat has given birth and many other everyday number experiences.

If, without making it a lesson, we draw attention to numbers as they come up, our children will have a much better understanding around which to build their arithmetic skills. The use of a small weekly allowance is one way of meaning to numbers. Asking the very young child to bring a certain number of objects and making a game of it is another, good approach.

There are, indeed, many ways to help children learn about numbers and enjoy it.

Dawson Said To Be Factor In 'Influence'

By CHARLES B. SEIB
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. — A Senate witness testified today that Donald Dawson, personnel adviser to President Truman, was identified to him as the key to E. Merle Young's "Washington influence."

The witness was Bertram M. Lindsley, former employee of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's Dallas office. He was called to help the subcommittee committee clear up a dispute over whether Young, husband of a White House stenographer, sought an $85,000 "influence fee."

Lindsley said his information on Young's influence came from John B. Skiles, who also worked in the Dallas RFC agency and who was a friend of Young.

Indications Given

The witness said that during a discussion with Skiles on a Texas Petroleum Corporation application for an 18 million dollar government loan, Skiles indicated that "Young... had considerable influence in Washington and was the man to handle this type of loan."

He said that he understood from Skiles that Young's connection with Dawson was the basis for his influence. He added:

"The inference I got was that Young through his connection with Donald Dawson could not do anything out of the way, but see to it that small details would be taken care of."

Asked whether he meant that "Young, in various meetings with you, indicated Young had considerable influence due to his association and friendliness with Donald Dawson," Lindsley replied that was correct.

He also testified that Skiles, who was accused in a committee report of causing "disruption" in the Dallas agency, said he was "friendly" with both Young and Dawson and that he spoke to them over the telephone.

Lindsley also said that he "had a definite impression" that Young's brother was mentioned in his discussion with Skiles on Texas, but that he could remember none of the details.

Extension Of Rent Control Act Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. — (INS) — The senate banking committee today recommended a 90-day extension of the present rent control act and agreed to write a bill putting rent control under defense mobilization Wilson after June 30.

The committee unanimously instructed chairman Maybank (D) S. C. to introduce a resolution providing for a three-month extension without change of the present law which expires March 30.

The committee agreed that when a new bill is written, it will be embodied in the defense production act. It would take administration of rent controls away from housing expediter Woods, but President Truman and Wilson still could designate the expediter to carry out the program.

Maybank said rent control hearings will begin next month.

Court Ruling On 11 Top Reds Is Likely Today

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. — (INS) — The supreme court may decide today the fate of America's 11 top Communists who have been convicted of conspiracy to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government.

The Red leaders' appeal is expected to head the list of decisions which the high tribunal will hand down when it convenes after a six-week recess.

The 11 Communists were convicted after a nine-month trial before Federal Judge Harold R. Medina in New York. They were fined $10,000 each and handed prison terms ranging from three to five years.

Ten are free under bond. The other, Eugene Dennis, Communist party secretary, is serving a one-year jail term for contempt of Congress.

During arguments on the appeal Dec. 4, government attorneys told the supreme court that the Communists were "enemies of the state" who sought to use the bill of rights as a "hiding place."

The Communists, however, asked the high court to quash their conviction and declare the Smith act, under which they were tried, unconstitutional.

Some observers believe the justices may have something to say about the "clear and present danger" opinion voiced by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Holmes held that the first amendment guarantees "the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to constitute a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has the right to prevent."

BURGULARS GET SAFE
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 26. — (INS) — Burglars entered the basement of Huyler's restaurant on the boardwalk today and carted off a 400-pound safe containing $3,000. The intruders entered a rear window and wheeled the safe outdoors on a hand truck.

Council Agrees To Pay Taxes On Airport

In view of the fact that Finley Wilson, who leases the New Castle airport from the city, has protected the city's property from both deterioration and damages from accidents, council Monday by a vote of four to one, agreed to pay Union township taxes on the airport property amounting to about $287. Councilman Albert A. Hoyland voted negatively.

It was pointed out by Mayor John F. Haven that the runways were kept up, and that it was true as Wilson maintained, that it is operated at a loss for several months out of the year. Wilson pays the city a small percentage of his revenue which amounted to $75 last year.

The mayor said that, in his opinion the tax is levied illegally, a statement with which Solicitor Robert White practically agreed. Wilson pointed out to council that when he leased the airport which was largely built with federal funds, no mention of taxation was made. He also said he had kept the airport in such good condition he had been awarded a certificate of merit.

The mayor said that in his opinion the operation of the airport was not costing the city anything, excepting the taxes and Wilson was protecting the city by carrying insurance.

Councilman Joseph F. Medure stated that the city is operating the airport for the public welfare, and not for financial gain.

Civic Proposition
Finance Director Albert A. Hoyland said he recalls the "sneer" (during a recent election) and declared, "Let him (Wilson) pay the taxes, or let it grow up in weeds."

"I claim it is a civic proposition and we are obligated to take care of this," Councilman Richard L. Davis remarked.

The mayor said: "I am not in favor of letting it grow up in weeds."

Councilman Davis then offered a motion agreeing that the city should pay the taxes. Mr. Hoyland voted negatively.

Mr. Hoyland later explained the procedure by which the airport was leased and of the criticism which was showered, wrongfully, he said on council.

"I do not want anyone to think we made a bad move" the mayor contended.

Mr. Hoyland practically agreed with the mayor on the deal then explained that the airport, Sylvan Heights course and Cascade Park were places requested by civic organizations.

"If civic organizations had some group, wholly outside of politics, to present the true facts to the public, it would be beneficial. The public wants the truth and is entitled to the truth but so far no one has refuted the lies which 'We told' Hoyland declared.

"The public was misled, I believe we need the field for 'our boys' the mayor stated."

"I do not feel we should give up the field because of personalities, in view of conditions, such as they are nowadays" said Councilman E. Gene Schweinsberg.

Partially Disabled World War Veteran Would Sell His Eye

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26. — (INS) — A twice-wounded, partially disabled veteran of World War II offered today to sell an eye for money to help support his wife and two small daughters while he undergoes a long period of required hospitalization.

Theodore Earl, 25, of Los Angeles who served in both the Army and Navy, has been told he needs neurosurgery for an injury suffered in an automobile accident, but he refuses to leave his virtually penniless family.

Earl's only income now is a $30 partial disability check he receives monthly for wounds suffered aboard a Navy ship which was bombed by the Japanese at Dutch Harbor.

Earl enlisted in the Army at the age of 16 and later joined the Navy after the Army discharged him for being under age. Later he went to work as a clerk in a wholesale building supply firm. But he had to give up his job last week when he lost partial use of one leg.

Doctors said surgery and treatment probably would keep him hospitalized at least a year. Earl said:

"I'm not going to a hospital until I get this thing solved. I'll trade my eye to help my family. I don't know what else to do. We're already being told in our rent and food is getting low."

His wife, Wanda, is expecting a third child. Their two children are Sharon, 3; and Linda, 2.

Union Calabro To Purchase Bonds

Speakers on the program will include Charles Davis and H. H. Kauffman, poultry extension specialists from Penn State.

Also included in the program will be a demonstration by the North Beaver high school demonstration team, winners of the statewide Future Farmers of America demonstration contest at the State Farm show this January, in Harrisburg.

An afternoon session at 1:15 p. m. will follow the morning session and will conclude at 3 p. m.

IORE FLU CASES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26. — (INS)—Health Director Rufus S. Reeves announced today that 353 new cases of influenza were reported in Philadelphia over the week-end.

Reeves said the two-day total represented more than one-third of the 1,083 cases reported so far this year, with 16 deaths.

Twelve-Point Program For Peace By Sen. Martin

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 26.—(INS)—U. S. Sen. Edward Martin (R) Pa., today offered the American people a 12-point blueprint for the "preservation of freedom and peace in the world."

The former Pennsylvania governor, speaking to a Washington-Lincoln celebration of Frederick county Republican clubs, urged development of the "greatest potential military strength the world has ever known."

Creation of the most powerful navy and the strongest air force in history.

A small regular army which will be "the fastest, best trained and have the greatest fire power of any army in the world."

Sufficient regular army officers, selected by merit, to instruct the men of universal military training age and aid in the training of reserve components.

Complete Survey

A military and economic survey "of the whole situation" in the world.

"High gear" production of planes, ships, tanks, munitions, equipment and food to "surpass any of our past outstanding records."

All possible steps to "save manpower."

Economy in government.

A purge of all disloyal Americans in government, industry, education and religion.

Participation by every American in civilian defense.

Strategic maintenance by the United States of its "historic position as a leader for world peace and disarmament."

The American people to "show the world through right living and obedience of the laws of God and man, that our system has given more of the good things of life to more people than any other form of government ever conceived."

Demanding reserve military power through universal military training. Senator Martin said "every American must have military training—there must be no exceptions."

Strong Navy

Other points emphasized by the one-time major general include:

A strong navy—"American supremacy on the sea and in the air might preserve peace in the world."

A military and economic survey of world conditions—"We should know the extent to which the other free nations are willing to sacrifice in defense against Communist aggression; we should have a complete understanding that they will stand by their commitments; We should know their strength and their morale."

Saving manpower—"Wars are won by men, not by machines or appropriations; we must cut down unnecessary personnel in government, in industry, and even in the armed services; if war comes, every man saved hastens the day of peace; we must avoid strikes and slowdowns in industry."

Economy in government—"We must eliminate or drastically reduce every function not related to national defense; our freedom can be lost, even though we defeat Communist aggression in battle, if our country is plunged into financial collapse."

America's position as a leader for world peace and disarmament—"While we cannot take our guard down, we must not abandon hope that we can have peace; we must win the cold war of propaganda so that the world will know the U.S. has no plan for aggression or conquest."

Two Are Killed In Texas Gun Duel

MINEOLA, Tex., Feb. 26.—(INS)—An old grudge was blamed today for a gun duel reminiscent of the Old West in which two Texans, standing 10 feet apart, emptied their weapons and killed each other.

The victims of the gun duel in a Mineola cafe yesterday were Joe Henderson, 45, a railroad conductor, and Rufus Browning, 53, a cattle dealer.

A waitress, Mrs. Kate Womack, the only witness to the duel, told authorities that after Henderson was slain, Browning, who was mortally wounded, painfully opened a pocketknife, crawled to his foe and slashed the body.

Browning still was alive when police chief Bill Knippol arrived. The chief said the two men had been enemies for a long time but he did not know the cause of the quarrel.

Council To Make Property View

Following a complaint of Michael Orlando, Wabash avenue, concerning the erection of a garage and chicken coop which he said depreciated his property, council agreed to view the garage and chicken coop.

Orlando said the garage was started before a permit had been procured. He said the permit called for a block coop but it was constructed of wood.

He claimed the coop was a menace to health and said both buildings in his opinion lowered the value of his property.

Mayor John F. Haven said he would entertain a motion to view the structures and it was offered by Councilman A. A. Hoyland and was adopted unanimously.

Warns That All-Out Atomic War Could End Civilization

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Air Force Secretary Finletter warned today that all-out atomic war could end civilization.

Finletter said that the air force is working with a "horribly destructive weapon" in atomic armament—"and I can't tell you how destructive it can be."

The secretary, in a copyrighted interview in U. S. news and world report, said the very destructiveness of U. S. weapons available to the strategic air force is one of the major factors in maintaining the peace.

Finletter called attention to the damage done with early-type atom bombs at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, adding:

"And think what can be done with a greater number, a very much greater number of these weapons and you have something which really raises the question as to whether any civilization can take it and survive."

"And our potential enemies know that. And obviously they are going to, I think, think several times before they move against that sort of thing."

Finletter also said that even with the best defense anticipated at present a "very large" percentage of attacking enemy atomic bombers could get through to attack the United States.

In addition, the secretary said:

1. Naval aircraft can deliver the atom bomb.
2. Pilots of the Russian Mig-15 jets encountered in Korea are "extremely good fliers."
3. The six-jet B-47 is "the fastest bomber we know of in the world."

The hereditary factor is higher in the Jewish group of children than among Gentile children.

Before World War II about 40 per cent of U. S. exports went to British Empire.

F. and Rebekah Southwestern Pennsylvania Deputies' association. William S. Livengood, Jr., state secretary of internal affairs, was the main speaker. ## Zion Seeks New Vote On Blue Laws

ZION, Ill., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Zion, the small northern Illinois town where strict blue laws once flourished, is going to the mat and wrestle with sin again.

The town had blue laws since it was founded in 1900 by Dr. John A. Dowie until the ban was lifted April 5, 1949.

Now DeWitt C. Huntley, 69, an associate of Dowie, has presented a petition signed by 417 residents to the city council for a referendum to reconsider whether the blue laws, which once even banned profanity inside the city limits, shall go into effect again.

L. Eric Carey, the town's legal adviser, said the petition is in order, and the council is expected to rule Wednesday and place the referendum on the ballot at the April 3 elections.

WHAT DID HE DO WITH THE EIGHT TONS OF EARTH?

INCHING THROUGH A TUNNEL dug under the wall of the Maryland penitentiary at Baltimore, Joseph Holmes (inset), "the dinner time burglar," escapes in what Warden Edwin T. Swenson calls "the most fantastic escape I ever heard of." The general view of the penitentiary shows the escape route. To gain freedom Holmes cut through slate flooring nearly two inches thick; drilled through 10 inches of concrete, and tunneled through 70 feet of mud, clay and sand, removing an estimated eight tons of earth. What he did with the earth is a mystery. One guess is that he flushed it down the toilet. (International)

First Heralds Of Spring Are Recorded Here

All the heralds of spring were displayed during the weekend as only a chill in the air indicated that winter was in its last throes. Children's carefree laughter out-of-doors sent many an old timer digging for his seed catalog.

Several sleds and pairs of ice skates were stored for the rest of the year with hardly a glance as wagons and roller skates were dusted off and oiled. Throughout our town, boys and girls used the past two sunny days as an excuse to get outside and shake off the shackles of a winter like grandpa tells about.

Muddy lanes and fields and back roads gave the city youngster an advantage over his country cousin. In town, where so much surface is covered with macadam or cement, the young ones had plenty of playing surface that kept them from tracking mud on mother's clean floors.

First Display
Saturday and Sunday brought out this year's first display of the super-jet roller skates, the B-bomb baseball and the thunder-jet bicycle. In a topsy-turvy, high-speed world, the prosaic parent of yesteryear is going to find it necessary to come out of his shell and increase the tempo of his everyday life to keep up to his energized, vitamin-pilled child.

The father and mother who entered this speed age on the first pair of rollerbearing skates, forgets that the rollerbearing was replaced with the ballbearing and the ballbearing removed to make room for a fist full of "wheaties" and vitamin pills. (That must be the explanation for the speed of the skates of today.) Many an adult had his memory jogged this weekend as the click-clack of roller skates bore down on them. In school yards like those at West Side, North street and Oak street, the old "agate" "milky" and "crocky" are no longer in evidence. Someone has taken some of the rainbow, mixed it in glass and molded them into marbles. Movies and TV have kept the cowboy and Indian alive but some no-good, no-account maverick has been running guns to the injuns. They're now using tommy guns and ray-pistols.

The local weather prophets say that that means just one thing, spring is just around the proverbial corner.

Oppose Federal Plan To Tax City Securities

Upon recommendation of Finance Director Albert A. Hoyland, councilmen unanimously today went on record as being opposed to the proposed plan of the federal government to levy a one percent federal tax on state and municipal securities.

Small Fire At Johnson Bronze

City firemen answered three calls for fires over the weekend, two of which were grass fires, which were extinguished with brooms.

At 1:15 p.m. an alarm from Box 44, summoned firemen to the Johnson Bronze Company, where the roof of the sand house was found ablaze. The fire was confined to the area in which it originated, and the damage was not serious it is stated.

At 3:25 p.m. Second Ward firemen were called to Elizabeth street and Fairmont avenue, for a grass fire; and at 11:20 a.m. today, Fourth Ward firemen were called to Union street to extinguish a grass fire.

PONTIAC, Mich., Feb. 26—(INS)—Eighty-six persons arrested during a cock fight on a lavish farm, north of Pontiac, Mich., faced court trials today.

The cock-fight spectators, including six women, sat engrossed around a fluorescent lighted pit when sheriff's deputies and Humane Society authorities staged a raid yesterday.

Seventy-five live cocks, equipped with razor-like spurs, and 15 dead birds were confiscated.

All those arrested were held for investigation of loitering and locked up in the Oakland county jail overnight.

Police said the farm attracted spectators from as far away as Indiana and Ohio. Oakland county undersheriff Don Meizes said the farm is owned by a man named Earl Gardner, who is now believed to be in Florida.

Humane Society officers said the well-equipped fighting arena had a coffee stand in one corner of the barn, where score cards and magazines on cockfighting could be purchased.

LORRAINE LOMBARDI WEDS WILLIAM HUNT

A gown of white Chantilly lace enhanced the beauty of Miss Lorraine Lombardi of Philadelphia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Domenico Lombardi, Maryland avenue, New Castle, as she became the bride of William F. Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hunt of Race street, Sunbury, Pa.

Scene of the impressive ceremony was the SS. Peter and Paul Cathedral, Philadelphia, with Rev. Fr. O'Connell performing the rite at 11 a. m. Saturday, January 20.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown which featured a fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves and very full skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught up in a mantilla of Chantilly lace and she carried a spray of white roses.

Miss Patricia Sowers of Philadelphia as maid of honor was gown in aqua organza with a matching hat. A nosegay of pink roses and carnations completed the costume.

James Scanlon of Northumberland served the groom's best man, a wedding breakfast for the bride party and the immediate families was held at 2601 Parkway following the ceremony. The couple left for a honeymoon to the east and will reside in West Philadelphia upon their return.

Mrs. Hunt attended New Castle senior high school, Slippery Rock State Teachers college and was graduated in June 1950 from Penn State college with a degree in journalism. She is librarian at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Hunt until recently was manager in the Sunbury office of the Singer Sewing Machine company and has been transferred to the Market street office in Philadelphia. He was graduated from the Sunbury high school and received a degree in commerce and finance from Penn State college in June 1950. He served 13 months in the U. S. navy.

CHICAGO—American cities are continuing to get lit, but unlike their residents that get in such condition, their safety records are improving. A recent survey by the American Public Works Association of 278 representative U. S. cities, indicates that about 40 percent of the cities are now using mercury vapor lights for illuminating traffic arteries. Although in use for industrial lighting for years, mercury vapor, with its blue-white light, is a recent newcomer to the street lighting field.

Ordeal For Army Never Ends In Korea

By FRANK CONNIEFF
(U.S. & War Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ON THE WONJU FRONT, Feb. 26.—The ordeal for this fine army never ends.

Men who sweated through the soggy heat of the summer and the clawing cold of the winter today are in the throes of undergoing a trial by mud.

Only Italian veterans, who remember the goo and mush of that rain-haunted campaign, can appreciate the awful morass which bogged our troops as they sloshed forward in a "resumption of the initiative."

It seemed fitting to me that Gen. Mark Wayne Clark, commander of the Fifth Army in Italy, chose this particular day for a visit to front-line positions on the Wonju front.

General Clark gazed at the dripping skies. He peered through the mist at the cloud-draped mountains. They leered back as bitter and defiant as the hills which mocked his men during the Mediterranean fighting.

Reminds of Italy

"It sure reminds me of Italy," said the general without nostalgia. "The only thing missing is the mules."

The rain pelted down for almost 24 hours, a raw cutting precipitation that numbed and soaked its victims. Convoys shuffling troops to jump off positions were hopelessly snarled. Trucks slithered off the treacherous turns.

It was a miracle of transport achievement that the shuffling of vehicles was completed with reasonable success. Long lines of vehicles stretched for miles. The rain's steady cadence beat a mournful tattoo on the men in the jeeps and lorries.

Despite the handicaps, the concentrations of troops and vehicles was a throwback to the days of the last world war. Never before in the Korean episode have I seen such a massing of wheels and men.

Rolled for Hours

We rolled for hours in order to get to the front positions. Korean roads are so few and inadequate that only America's traditional flair for mobility made the resumption of the initiative possible.

Most of the movement was funneled along a single road through the mountains. Transport officers marvelled at the beating this lone highway absorbed without crumbling. Even the rolling rain failed to undermine its surface.

Tanks by the dozen crunched over it for hours and still their treads left no permanent scars. The soil remained sturdy beneath the foot-deep coating of sludge. At one point the route circled over the 3,000-foot mountain range through a narrow, tortuous pass. And still the shifting of men and machines was accomplished without particular incident.

We playboys of the fourth estate are roughing it slightly during this offensive. There are 17 of us stacked in a single squad tent 10 by 30 feet long. Rain leaks through the canvas all night.

An artillery battery behind the command post bangs away intermittently. These hasty lines are being typed in the dawn's early light with my underwood propped on a cot.

I was just about ready to feel sorry for myself until I looked up at the nearby hills where the offensive has kicked off again.

Anything is better than a fox-hole.

An unmarried woman was originally called a spinster because she was supposed to be occupied spinning her wedding clothes.

STREET CAR ETIQUETTE

"I am always a little confused by street-car etiquette. Please straighten me out on the following points:

"When a man and a woman neighbor whom he has met by chance enter together, must he pay her fare? Should a man step aside to let his woman companion enter and leave the car first? Should a man get up to give his seat to a woman even if he does not know her? Most men do not do this, so I wondered if it is a breach of etiquette."

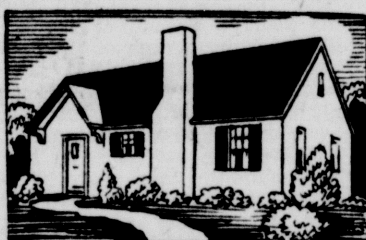

Answer: Carfare is such a trifling matter, it seems futile to fuss about it, but people do seem to get into complications nevertheless. When two or more women friends are together, the one who enters first usually pays all, unless they are constant companions who have "Dutch treat" arrangements.

When a woman is the guest of a man, he, of course, always pays the fare. If he meets a woman neighbor or acquaintance accidentally, he should attempt to pay for her. Whether she accepts his offer depends upon her own choice. If she has her fare ready and seems eager to pay her own, he should not be insistent and under no circumstances should he argue about the matter. Also if they are business people going downtown frequently on the same car, she should insist on paying her fare.

A man should step aside to allow his woman companion to enter first, but when getting out, he should leave first so that he might help her out.

There was a time when no gentleman would remain seated while women stood in street cars; but that day seems to have passed forever. The tired business man with a long trolley ride is loath to give up his seat to young women who have either been sitting comfortably in an office all day or sitting at a lengthy luncheon or bridge all afternoon.

Any man who has any claim to good breeding will never remain seated while an elderly woman or a woman carrying a baby clings to a strap. In fact, no young woman should remain seated under these circumstances.

Wampum Ready For Sixth Appearance In Class B Floor Tourney

Titans Defeat Upsala 85-62; Decline NAIB Bid

Meet East Washington High Tuesday Night At Dormont

Wampum high school's Indians will be representing Lawrence county for the sixth time in the WPIAL class B tournament when they meet East Washington in a first round game at Dormont Tuesday night.

The first three times that Butler Hennon's team got into the tournament they were eliminated in their first outing, but that hasn't been the case in the last two.

The 1950 team won its first round game handily but bowed to Avalon in the second round. The 1947 team, however, went all the way to the finals before bowing to Irwin. That team knocked off Leesdale, East Washington and Snowden in the tournament.

Shooting Percentages

(First Ten League Games)
Bill Krueger	21	13	62
John Miller	18	11	45
John McMillin	19	10	41
Jim Novalesi	11	6	40
Ronald Grimes	15	8	39
Bruce Bingham	23	12	37
Ronald Buccelli	17	10	37
Paul Johnson	13	10	36
Caesar Craine	18	10	35
John Swogers	11	23	32

(First column, shots attempted; second column, shots made; third column, percentage.)

way to the finals before bowing to Irwin. That team knocked off Leesdale, East Washington and Snowden in the tournament.

In 1946, 1944 and 1941 Wampum lost its first game. Midland edged the Indians' 1946 outfit 32-29. Evans City squeezed by Wampum's 1944 team 44-43 in the final seconds of play, and Midland dumped the 1941 team 55-15.

One Of Wampum's Best

The Indians' record in the five appearances in the tournament reads four wins and five defeats. This year's team compares favorably with the best in the history of the school and should be able to give a good account of itself in the class B playoffs.

It has more depth than any of its predecessors and boasts a squad that hit on 37 percent of its shots in its first ten Section 23 games. This percentage ties the highest mark ever posted by any other Wampum team and is quite a bit higher than the average high school percentage.

One of the most amazing things about this shooting is that it is evenly divided, with no player falling below the 30 percent mark. In foul shooting the team posted a 60 percent mark in the first ten league contests. John McMillin was high with 24 out of 33 for 73 percent. Ronald Buccelli hit on 10 out of 14 for 71 percent and Jim Novalesi had 29 out of 43 for 67 percent.

Craine Leading Scorer

In total scoring in league play Caesar Craine paced the team with 198 points. Next comes John Mc-

Millin with 177 and Jim Novalesi with 157.

The play of center Craine and guards Novalesi and McMillin has been one of the bright spots of the Wampum team all season.

Paul Johnson, Lou Miller, Ronald Buccelli and John Swogers have divided the forward honors with Johnson and Miller receiving the starting nods most of the league season.

With Johnson and Miller at forward Coach Hennon has an all six foot starting team. Second stringers Bill Krueger and Ralph Grimes also reach the six foot mark. Bruce Bingham, Buccelli and Swogers, all around 5 ft. 8 in., are the midgets of the team.

Caps Defeat Barons, 6 To 4

(By International News Service) The Cleveland Barons were treated roughly by the Indianapolis Capitals last night, despite their new standing as American Hockey League Western Division champions.

The Barons, who clinched their sixth championship in coach Bun Cook's eight seasons at the helm by downing the Caps in Cleveland Saturday night, 7-6, dropped the return match on the Caps' home ice, 6-4.

The Buffalo Bisons turned back the Hershey Bears, 6-3, to increase their first-place margin in the Eastern loop.

In the other AHL game last night, the Cincinnati Mohawks battled the Red at Providence to a 2-2 overtime tie.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Beshore Battles Big Art Henri

HARRISBURG, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Blond Freddie Beshore stated tapering-off drills today and tomorrow for his hometown boxing debut Wednesday night with Art Henri, New York heavyweight.

Beshore checked into Harrisburg last night from New York, where he trained the past three weeks. Henri, a veteran trial horse, will arrive today.

The fight will be the first for Beshore since being knocked out by the still-potent fists of ex-heavyweight champ Joe Louis in Detroit several weeks ago.

Julius McCoy Paces Section Three Scorers

Sansone Is Among First 10 Leaders

New Castle could place but one among the first ten in Section III scoring for the season just completed.

John Sansone's 45 field goals and 35 fouls ran his league total to 125 and placed him eighth among ten section scoring leaders.

Julius McCoy's 204 points made a farce of any scoring race, bettering any competition by 40 points. His point total resulted from 10 games and tell shy of Don Reed's record mark of 218. McCoy missed two games due to an ankle injury.

Walter Bedich of Sharon and Burt Starr of Ellwood ran two and three in scoring. Aliquippa placed three among the first 10 scorers.

Hanks Stretch Streak Saturday

The undefeated Hank A. C. racked up their 16th straight win at the same time, advanced to the quarter-finals in the Cortland Lions tournament by downing the Braceville Sportsmen Saturday 56-34 at the Cortland High floor.

The Hanks got off to an early lead and kept it throughout the game, picking up an 18-12 first quarter lead and stretching it to 28-20 at the half.

Janacone Scoring Star

In the third stanza, the powerful Hank defense was as tight as a shoe in not permitting the Braceville men to score a single tally while they went on to score 14 and take a commanding 42-20 lead.

During the fourth period, the Hanks coasted along but matched their opponents point for point at 14 each to come home with an easy victory and advance a step higher in the tournament.

Harp Janacone was the scoring star in the game accounting for 18 of the Hank points. For the losers, L. Gintert and D. Morar were high with 11 and 10 respectively. The Hanks have also added the services of Ne-Ca-Hi's high scoring John Sansone who pitched in with 4 markers in his initial start.

Play Clowns Saturday

The Hanks will return to Cortland for their quarter-final game next Monday evening and will field Warren Garners contest.

The next game on the Hank schedule will be the big game on Saturday, March 3 when they meet the famous Broadway Colored Clowns at George Washington gym, beginning at 8:30 p. m.

Church May Sign Contract Today

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 26.—(INS)—Emory (Bubba) Church, Phillips' right hander with an 8-6 log for last year, was banned from the practice field today by manager Eddie Sawyer because his contract is still unsigned.

"There is not too much difference between us," said Church, "but it is enough to wait until Mr. Carpenter (R. M. Carpenter, Jr., president of the club) arrives here tomorrow."

The young moundsman who showed great form until struck in the head by a line drive last September, is believed to be seeking double last year's salary of $5000, against the management's reported offer of $8500.

Charles (Chick) Werner, Penn State track coach, is a former Big Ten hurdling champion.

Conti, representing the 5th Naval District, Norfolk, Va., reached the finals by winning a three-round decision against Pfc. Clyde Pearson of Fort Myer Thursday night before 3800 fans.

Walter, a 21-year-old 5' 8" 131 pounder, has been boxing a lot over two years and holds a record of seven wins and three losses. He boxed for the Great Lakes and the New London, Conn. Sub Base in recent seasons. A graduate of New Castle high school, he is presently stationed aboard the USS Orion.

Pitt Baseball Candidates Called

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.—(INS)—"Old Sarge" Ralph Mitterling called out the baseball candidates at Pitt today and officially began his thirteenth season as head baseball coach.

Recreation Teams In Championship Games This Week

This will be the sixth annual city recreation tournament.

Drop Corn To Turkeys, Deer

Members of the Aero Game Feeding Club, Inc., and other sportsmen, rode planes Sunday from Albert airport, Phillipsburg, into the northern tier of counties and dropped corn to deer and wild turkeys.

The amount of corn dropped was not known exactly today.

Of the amount 142 bushels came from the Glidden farm, at Enon Valley, according to Vice-President Del Porter who stated that two PBV's carried this corn and 320 other bushels to the airport.

The Lawrence county corn was dropped in Warren county.

Four fighter planes from Akron carried passengers to the airport and participated in the corn distribution.

Visibility was good and flocks of turkeys and herds of deer were easily discernible.

Earl Jordan and Harry Reith and other sportsmen from here attended the feeding as did members of the Game Commission, some of Governor Fine's cabinet and photographers from various places.

Porter was flown to the airport and back, by Gail Kimmel of Enon Valley.

Boston Bruins Defeat Chicago

(By International News Service) A third period rally by the Boston Bruins gave them a 3-2 win over the Chicago Black Hawks last night and saved their one-point hold on third place in the National Hockey league race.

A tie-breaking goal by Max Quackenbush did the trick for the Bruins who will face the league leading Detroit Red Wings on Wednesday night.

In the league's only other game, the New York Rangers scored a surprisingly easy victory over the Red Wings by a 6-2 score. The Rangers racked up five goals before the Red Wings could tally one and the only question as to the outcome was whether goalie Chuck Rayner could register a shutout.

Buddy O'Connor led the Rangers in scoring with two goals.

Dick Button Again World's Chamoion

MILAN, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Dick Button, 21-year-old Harvard junior from Englewood, N. J., is making a habit of winning the world's figure skating championship.

Westminster Runs Home Streak To 76; Record 19th Win Of Year

Westminster College has been invited to participate in the NAIB tournament at Kansas City in March, but has declined the invitation. Titan Coach Grover C. Washabaugh has disclosed.

Washabaugh said Westminster turned down the invitation because the Titans do not complete their regular schedule in time to participate in the tournament. The Titans play their final game of the regular season March 8 at Farrell against Washington & Jefferson.

The Titans participated in the NAIB tourney last season and were eliminated in the second round. Westminster has a record this year of 19 victories against five defeats. Three games remain to be played.

EASY WIN SATURDAY

Westminster College cagers romped to an easy 85-62 victory over a road-weary Upsala College quintet Saturday night for their 76th straight home court win.

The victory was the Titans' 19th of the current season against five losses. It was Upsala's seventh loss in 18 starts.

The Titans made their usual slow start and trailed for the first three minutes of the contest. Ed Halas gave the Blue and White a 6-5 lead with 17 minutes remaining in the first period. The Vikings tied it up 7-7 two minutes later and Halas came back again with 14 minutes remaining to put Westminster ahead again 9-7. The Titans were ahead the rest of the way.

Halas Scores 19

Halas, who went out with 15 minutes remaining in the second half, paced the Titan scorers with 19 points on nine field goals and a foul shot. Pat King and John Abraham were close behind with 17 and 16 points respectively.

High man for the Vikings was Frank Rawlings with 16 points.

Eleven Titans hit the scoring column as Coach Grover Washabaugh began to clear the bench after Westminster jumped to a 37-23 halftime lead.

The game put two Titan scorers over the 400 mark for the season. King and Halas, neck and neck in the scoring parade as the Titans hit the homestretch of the current season, have hit for 424 and 407 points respectively in the 24 games played to date. King has a game average of 17.6 and Halas 16.9.

Three games remain on the Titan schedule this year. Two of them are played this week. Tuesday Westminster plays a return engagement at Waynesburg and Saturday end the home season with Carnegie Tech. The season's final will be played at Farrell March 8 with Washington & Jefferson.

Gangland-Style Shooting Occurs In New York City

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Police pinned a revenge tag today on the gangland-style killing of a 23-year-old smalltime mobster and ex-pug who was cut down by a volley of shots from a black sedan on the eve of his trial for the murder of a longshoreman.

The victim was Alfred "Allie" Gordon who was to have gone on trial today charged with the second degree murder of Joseph A. Turi in a shooting at the Brooklyn Tavern last August 5.

Assistant District Attorney Samuel Y. Gitlin questioned a group of suspects all night but they were released early this morning and Gitlin admitted that hopes of solving the case are pinned on finding the murder car.

Pitt-West Virginia Will Clash Tonight

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.—(INS)—The district's hottest rivalry game occurs tonight at Pitt stadium where a determined group of young Panthers intend to upset West Virginia.

The long series, which lists 41 victories for Pitt and 31 for West Virginia, generally is the most thrilling game of the year in Pittsburgh.

It will be the final intercollegiate basketball game played at the stadium pavilion which was opened 26 years before. Next season Pitt will play in its new field house.

Last week Pitt pushed West Virginia all the way before bowing, 56-52, in Morgantown.

There were 335,000 high school teachers in the United States in 1940.

Will Call Mayor In Los Angeles Probe Of Crime

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—(INS)—Senator Estes Kefauver, in town for a further probe of the Los Angeles crime situation by his senate investigating committee, said today that Mayor Fletcher Bowron would be the first witness when sessions start tomorrow.

Kefauver said that "several stones were left unturned" during the first hearings held in Los Angeles to months ago.

He declined to say whether gangster Mickey Cohen had been summoned for another appearance before the committee.

Given Authority To Close Streets

Council on motion of Councilman Joe Medure, today clothed E. Gene Schweinsberg, Streets department director, with authority to close Wooley and Syling streets to traffic because of the condition of both thoroughfares. Mr. Schweinsberg ruled that all traffic, heavier than a half ton truck, would be banned on those streets.

The action was the result of a petition which requested that Philip R. Winter be stopped from conducting building operations there because heavy trucks made the streets impassable.

Mr. Schweinsberg said that as soon as the department fixed up one street, heavy trucks would tear it up, hence councilman action.

West Point Plebe Acquires A 'Pop'

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 26.—(INS)—The West Point plebe has acquired a "pop."

For the first time in the 149-year history of the army academy professors, instructors and members of the various staffs have each "adopted" two or three first-year men.

Under the sponsor system the plebes visit the homes of their "pops" weekend afternoons and evenings to take part in domestic conversation, eat a home-cooked meal and pour their troubles into sympathetic ears.

Speaking of the innovation, the new academy superintendent, Maj. Frederick Irving, says, "as far as I'm concerned, it will stay."

EXPECT SENATE TO PASS UMT BILL THIS WEEK

Taft also said he definitely opposed the law, but an expiration date in the bill he said the insertion of a time limit might be one way of attacking the UMT provision, which so far has escaped controversy.

There is no law which compels a citizen of the United States to have and use a given name.

Plane Crash In Kansas Reported

Charges Missing Scientist Gave Secrets To Russia

(BULLETIN)
SHARON, Kas., Feb. 26.—(INS)—A Kansas farm wife reported today that a plane crashed this morning near her home about seven miles southwest of Sharon and near the Oklahoma border.

Mrs. Herbert Landwehr said she and her husband heard the sputtering of the unidentified plane's engine as it passed over their home. She said she saw two objects fall from the plane as it went into a spin but she did not see parachutes.

The committee also referred the nominations of the board members, headed by Seth W. Richardson, to a subcommittee formed to investigate communism.

Richardson, former head of the Loyalty Review board, and other members of the Subversives Control board are serving under recess appointment.

The committee's action indicate a fight over their confirmation may develop.

The Subversives Control board was set up to watch operations of the McCarran Anti-Subversive act passed by the last Congress under a strongly-worded presidential veto.

Other appointees to the board are Peter Campbell Brown, former Justice department attorney; ex-Rep. Charles LaFollette (R) Ind.; David J. Coddare, Boston attorney; and Kathryn McHale, sister of the Democratic National committee man from Indiana.

The newspaper's account followed earlier unconfirmed reports that Pontecorvo, who did research on cosmic rays at Britain's Harwell atomic laboratory, flew with his wife and children from Stockholm to Helsinki, Finland, last September and then disappeared.

Pontecorvo made a hurried trip with his family to Stockholm from Rome where he was on vacation before he was scheduled to join the faculty of Liverpool university in January of this year.

The Daily Express said that the Kremlin threatened to inform the British embassy in Rome of the 40-year-old scientist's activities unless he agreed to come to Russia. Such action would have led to the physicist's immediate arrest.

Pontecorvo, who was a co-worker of convicted atomic spy Dr. Klaus Fuchs, was a former student of Enrico Fermi, Nobel prize winner and leader in the development of the atomic bomb.

Father In Heroic Rescue Of Son In New York City

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(INS)—A 51-year-old carpenter rescued his six-year-old son from the East river after the boy fell into a manhole and was swept by water through 100 feet of drain pipe into the river.

The father, Martin Byrne, said, "it was a miracle of God. I don't know how to swim."

Byrne and his son Bruce were walking yesterday when the father turned his head to greet a friend. When he turned back Bruce was gone.

The father saw an open manhole and looked down on a hunch. He saw the boy being swept along by the rushing water.

Byrne climbed down the manhole and pursued the boy in three feet of water. When he reached the pipe's outlet at the river's edge he saw Bruce floundering in the water a few feet away.

Byrne plunged into the river, somehow reached the boy's side and then towed him back along the drain pipe to the manhole where passersby helped him and the boy to reach the street.

Army Nurses At Hospitals Near To Front

By ROBERT SCHAKNE

ON THE EAST-CENTRAL FRONT IN KOREA, Feb. 26.—The army nurse stood on the blood-stained floor of the operating room—a battered bank building in a Korean town less than ten miles from the front—and explained why she and her sister nurses were there.

"If we were not," she said, "hundreds of boys who are alive today might have died. That makes all the inconveniences seem meaningless."

The nurse, Maj. Eunice S. Coleman of Santa Monica, Cal., heads a detachment of 13 brave women stationed with the First Mobile Army Surgical Hospital—called "Mash" for short.

As she spoke and as the doctors conducted round-the-clock surgical work, the big 155mm howitzers shook the windows with intermittent firing only a few hundred yards away.

The angry buzz of a helicopter landing on the hospital grounds with a newly-wounded GI and the clashing of gears of the ambulances, steadily arriving and departing, added to the din through which the hospital staff worked.

Get Used to It

Another nurse, Capt. Mary Ward, of San Francisco, standing in a receiving tent, said:

"It's odd being a woman this close to the front. But you get used to it. The first night after I arrived here and I heard the artillery fire, I couldn't sleep."

"But you couldn't keep thinking of guns for there was too much to do—too many boys had to have attention without delay."

In the operating room, three doctors worked feverishly. Two nurses and two non-coms were assisting them.

Lt. Col. Carl T. Duby, of Tullia, Tex., the hospital commandant, didn't refer to the patients lying on the table by name. They were the "hummer" case, the "hand" case and the "belly" case.

Lose Personality

"In time, the patients lose personality because there are so many of them. We have doctors and nurses who have worked as long as 36 hours without a break. We just know the men by the nature of their wounds. We don't have time for anything else."

The operating room which once had been the main lobby of the bank was furnished with a minimum of equipment. A battered Coca Cola refrigerator and ingeniously constructed rubber tubing provided the vital scrub basis facilities the surgeons needed.

The doctors themselves—Capt. Dexter Ball, Santa Anita, Cal.; Capt. Jack Wilsey, New York City, and Capt. William Creeps, San Francisco—and the two nurses—Capt. Marion Benninger, Shillington, Pa., and Capt. Jane Thurness, Columbus, O.—provided a mixture of the atmosphere of a hospital and an army camp.

Below their white surgical gowns was the unmistakable green of army fatigues and muddy combat boots.

The hospital, constructed with a minimum of equipment to provide for maximum mobility, actually has almost every vital healing device. A complete dental office with equipment for construction of false teeth was set up in what had once been the bank president's office.

A laboratory and pharmacy were included in the hospital.

Col. Dubuy said his unit landed with the Tenth Corps at Inchon, escaped the small arms fire of an ambush in Central Korea and remained on the Hungnam beach-head until the last few days before the evacuation was completed.

American Indians had no knowledge of iron prior to the arrival of Europeans.
